Our beneficiary options

The lump-sum death benefit (Art. 24 of the Pension Fund Regulation/Pension Regulation) falls due if the insured person dies before retirement.

The lump-sum death benefit generally corresponds to the retirement assets available at the time of death less any present values for pension benefits payable to the partner and to the divorced partner as well as less any capital settlements in accordance with Art. 23 Sec. 5 and 9 of the Pension Fund Regulation or Art. 22 Sec. 5 and 9 of the Pension Regulation.

If a person receiving a retirement pension dies within the first five years after retirement or after the last partial retirement step, a lump-sum death benefit shall become payable. The amount of the lump-sum death benefit corresponds to five annual pensions (amount at the time of retirement) less the pension entitlement accrued up to the time of death (Art. 24b of the Pension Fund Regulation).

▼ Please refer to the following page.

The following survivors are entitled to a lump-sum death benefit:

Group a: the spouse or registered partner

Group b: the partner in accordance with Art. 23 Sec. 2 of the Pension Fund Regulation or Art. 22 Sec. 2 of the Pension Regulation

Group c: the person responsible for the maintenance of one or more joint children

Group d: the natural persons who were financially supported by the insured person

Group e: the children in accordance with Art. 252 of the Swiss Civil Code (ZGB)

Group f: parents

Group g: siblings

Group h: the other statutory heirs, up to half of the lump-sum death benefit, excluding public bodies

Note

- ▶ To take better account of the pension objective in the light of individual circumstances, you may determine the proportionate distribution between the beneficiaries within groups a to h individually.
- ▶ Groups b to d will be taken into account only if these persons were notified to Asga in a beneficiary's declaration.
- ▶ You may also alter the sequence of groups b to d or of groups f to g.

How to proceed

1. Consider which person or persons you wish to designate as the primary beneficiary or beneficiaries.
2. Enter these persons in the first position and specify the proportional allocation. If one of the persons listed has already passed away, the lump-sum death benefit will be distributed proportionally among the remaining persons in the first position.
3. You may enter additional beneficiaries in the second, third and subsequent positions. However, these persons are taken into consideration only if all persons in the preceding categories have passed away.
